X. Comments:
1. In which areas could the supervisee(s) have been more adequately prepared?
			Advocacy, Cultural Competency, and Social Justice - In the general sense I see this as a very slight weakness in the program/with the interns but they are super proactive about learning and researching on their own. None at this time. n/a Would like to have had the supervisee in group setting more often. N/A The supervisee would benefit from more experience and will gain confidence in her decision making and execution of her skills as she does. x None. I found Loyola students to be very well trained in all facets of counseling. Supervisee appears to be adequately prepared for the setting. Comfort level with groups n/a
2. What are the areas where the supervisee(s) were exceptionally prepared?

			Clinical areas -counseling, consultation, conceptualizing and processing, and following through with feedback. Working with adolescents, adults and couples. Being comfortable just approaching clients (students) Rapport, empathy, energy/excitement for working with clients N/A She was thoroughly prepared with documentation and was well versed in ethical considerations. x Assessment, engagement, theoretical knowledge, clinical judgement, case conceptualization, working with multiple disciplines, writing reports, to name a few. Counseling micro skills, organization, ability to conceptualize clients, ability to work in a chaotic environment. Rapport building Supervisees came exceptionally well prepared in regards to their knowledge of ethical practice guidelines.
